Tokyo, Japan

Explore the forefront of innovation, sustainability, and technology growth through infrastructure and business. The event organised by the AIJA Real Estate, International Business Law and Banking, Finance and Capital Markets Commissions is designed to foster knowledge exchange and collaboration.

The agenda spans a dynamic range of topics, starting with a deep dive into emerging trends in financing structures. Participants will gain insights into innovative models and strategies that are reshaping how projects are funded and executed in the sector. The importance of environmental and social governance, highlighting the latest practices in sustainable construction and energy-efficient solutions, will be also explored.

A key highlight is the comprehensive exploration of data centre development, addressing the critical considerations in designing, constructing, and maintaining these essential facilities. Experts will discuss the infrastructure required for optimal operation, from energy supply and cooling systems to physical security.

The event also delves into the evolving landscape of digital transformation, public private partnerships, crowdfunding, REITs, and compliance, providing practical guidance on risk mitigation and safeguarding investments in an increasingly interconnected world.

Interactive elements of the programme include a hands-on workshop focused on bridging cultural differences in negotiations, providing actionable strategies for professionals working across global markets. This collaborative session underscores the value of adaptability and cultural intelligence in creating successful outcomes.
